1. USHERS

Introduction

- A warm-hearted and a kind-hearted usher go together like the pulpit and the sermon.
- Lead, guide, or do anything else that is an extension of the human smile – don't order people. Be a warm-hearted friend, not an officer (2 Peter 1:7).
- Your motto: "We love you, and we are glad you are here."

a. Three Myths to Forget

- i. Ushers are not important
- ii. Anyone can be an usher
- iii. People don't care who is at the reception door

b. Preparation & Posture

- i. Preparation for usher duties begins at your own home/office.
- ii. An usher acts as the host of the event. Welcome people with a warm handshake and greet them (if possible by their name). If there are handbills, make sure that everyone receives a copy.
- iii. All usher lanyard and tags are to be worn over the neck.
- iv. Station yourself quickly so as to carry out your allocated duties. Be attentive and show visitors to available seats, beginning at the front row.
- v. Take up your respective positions at the end of the congregational worship. Be ready to collect offering.
- vi. After collection of the offering, go straight to the ushers' counter and hand the offering bags to the leader and attend to other necessary tidying work or go back to your station. REMEMBER: USHER DUTIES DOES NOT END HERE.
- vii. Count the attendance (each respective assigned sections).
- viii. Ushers should not be found talking among themselves. Always ensure reverence during the whole service. If at any occasion any person's acted out of the norm, gently and tactfully usher that person to the designated place.
- ix. Be alert throughout the service for any special instruction from the service director / NM.
- x. Be at the entrance again at the end of the service to greet people with "God Bless You", "See You Tomorrow," and "God Loves You" etc

c. Essential Pointers

- i. Present a neat appearance. First impressions count much. Let your every expression convey the idea of friendliness and warmth.
- ii. Courtesy, quietness (i.e. no unnecessary talking or chatting), reverence. Be natural, not stiff and officious, yet always reverent and dignified. Be sincere, pleasant, kind and hospitable.
- iii. Never embarrassed a guest, no matter how wrong he/she may be.
- iv. Study the auditorium and know where every available seat. Encourage the congregation to be seated well forward.
- v. During prayer, all latecomers should be quietly detained at the door. This is to avoid disturbance and to maintain a prayerful atmosphere. During worship, ensure that latecomers are ushered in a quiet manner to avoid disturbance to other worshippers.

- vi. Always conduct your guest to his/her seat. Never direct them.
- vii. Finding a seat does not terminate your responsibility. You should be observant to his/her needs during the service.
- viii. Do not be afraid to go up to those who are seated and asked whether is there anyone seated next to him/her, if you see the seats is empty.
- ix. Always be ready to tender your help esp. to parents with many baggage, etc.
- x. Always go and greet the people than allowing them to come to you.
